

IMPACT PRAYER – APRIL 2015

As we embark on this exciting journey of prayer, we want to remind ourselves of the message of hope captured in the centenary DVD promo, celebrating our first century that, “the greater things are yet to come”. I believe God has not finished with you and I yet and this inspiring quote should fill us with a sense of hope, expectation and a desire for more. It is in this same light that we step out on our prayer journey of faith, believing God to do great things with and through us. Let’s keep praying and believe for His Spirit teach us to excel in the act of prayer. Lord teach us to pray.

1. Please spend some time alone, in small groups and as congregations, reflecting on God’s goodness to date, re-evaluating His high calling on us as individuals and as a fellowship and his many promises both fulfilled and yet to.
2. With that, begin to thank God for his faithfulness through all the changing scenes of life and ministry over a whole century.
3. Praise God for the many ordinary men and women whom God used in extraordinary ways to birth and sustain this movement and pray that God stirs up desire and a hunger for even greater cutting edge in diverse ministries within our fellowship.
4. Finally pray that God in His mercy will break up any and every fallow grounds and align us to His plans and purposes for the now moment as we prepare to enter our next century.

God bless and reward you abundantly as we seek His face
